LLRF 2017 Sponsorship Opportunities

General Information

Hotel SB Diagonal Zero Barcelona

The Low Level RF Workshop 2017 will be held in Barcelona, Spain from 16 - 19 October 2017 at the Hotel Diagonal Zero Barcelona.

Low Level RF Systems are an essential part of the RF systems of accelerators, controlling the RF structures and their power sources in order to maintain the beam accelerating voltage in ultimate levels of stability. The goal of the LLRF2017 workshops is to bring together worldwide experts in the field in order to share experiences, present status of work and discuss developments and prospects of the field.

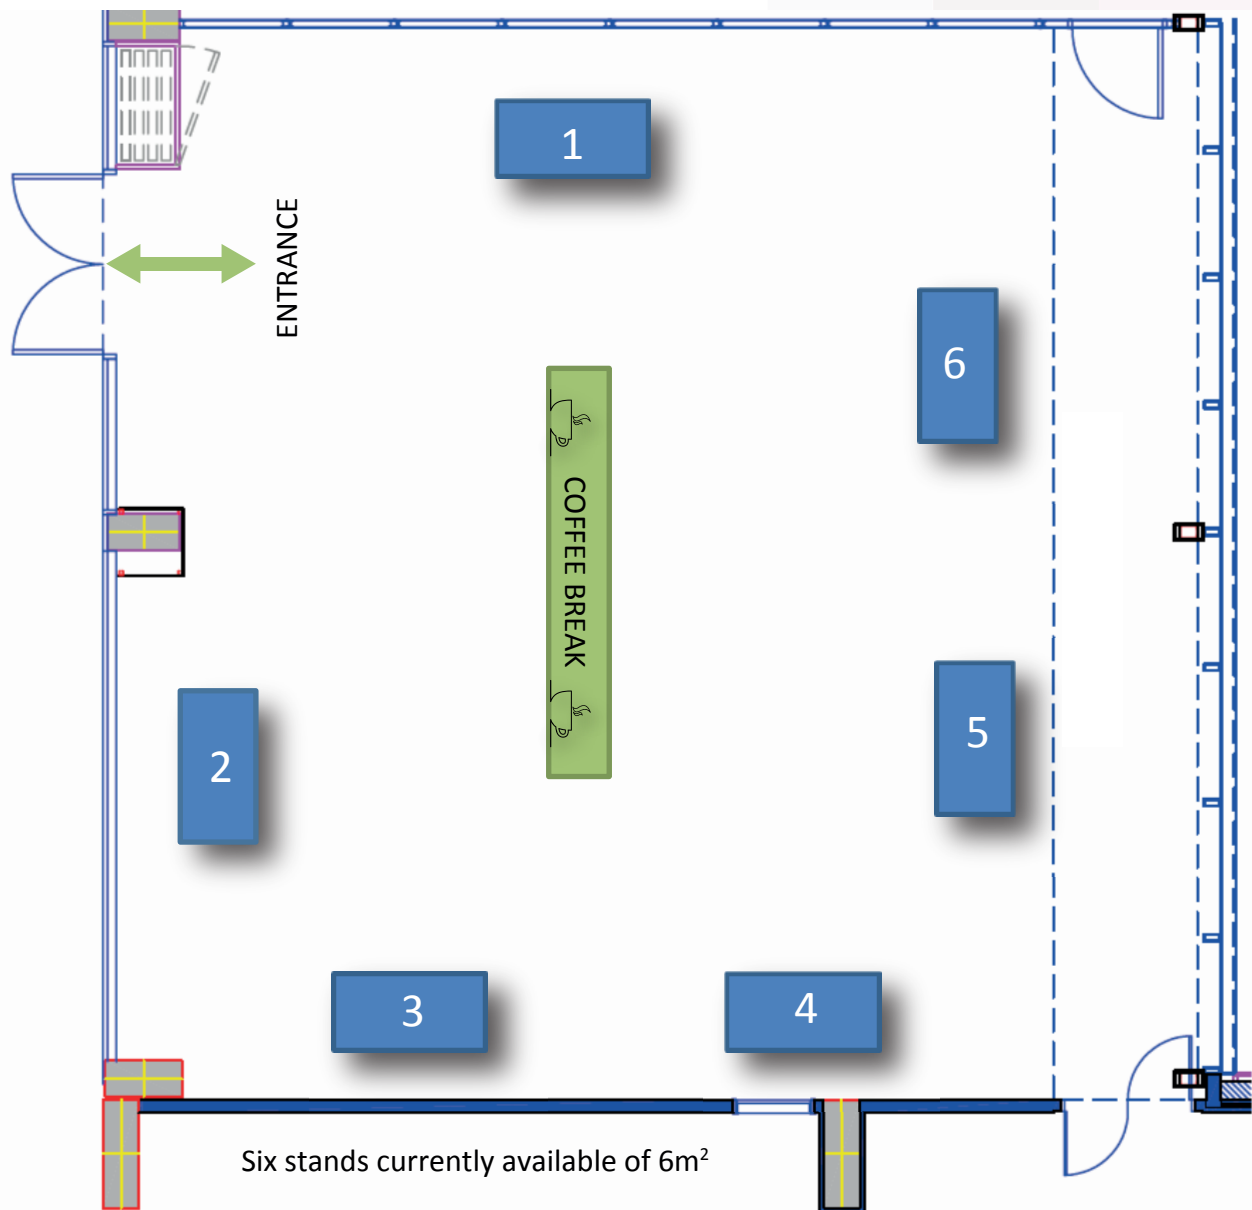

This is the eighth workshop in LLRF and we hope to achieve the same level of success than past editions (Jefferson Lab, CERN, ORNL, KEK, DESY, SLAC/LBL and SSRF). The specialized topics covered during the oral presentations and the dedicated time to open discussions make this conference ideal from experts willing to share their ideas/experiences to beginners willing to learn from their experiences. The workshop programme will also include tutorials on selected topics as well as a poster session and a visit to the ALBA Synchrotron Facility.

Why exhibit?

- Being at the Workshop will give your company the opportunity to take advantage of four days of access to a wide scope of potential clients, and therefore you will be able to inform them about your products and services and build long-term business relationships.
- Your company will have maximum exposure and therefore increase their chance to be in contact with not only registered delegates but also anyone who receives information about the Workshop in printed or electronic format.
- You will have priority when it comes to choosing sponsorship options which meet your marketing objectives.
- It has been proven that being an exhibitor is a very useful tactic to market your brand: it combines allowing potential clients to be in the reach of written publicity and the persuasion of a face-to-face meeting.
- The Workshop participants are looking to broaden their scientific knowledge. The fact that your company is aligned with this type of activity shows a commitment for the delegates.
- Your company will benefit from being exposed to an audience who are generally interested in what you have to say within an informal and informative environment.
- You will be well informed and able to identify competitor's marketing strategies.
